

Girl Scout Democracy Badge

One Way to Earn the Democracy Badges as a Multi-Level Troop	What Daisies Do (Democracy for Daisies Badge)	What Brownies Do (Democracy for Brownies Badge)	What Juniors Do (Democracy for Juniors Badge)	What Cadettes Do (Democracy for Cadettes Badge)	What Seniors Do (Democracy for Seniors Badge)	What Ambassadors Do (Democracy for Ambassadors Badge)
Girls work together to plan a visit to their town hall or city hall to include meeting with the mayor or a person on the town or city council. Girls plan for what they want to see, what questions to ask and who will ask them.	Find out about local government	Find out about local government	Find out about local government	Find out about local government	Find out about local government	Find out about local government
Girls work together to plan an in-person or virtual visit to their State Capital. If possible, girls can set up a meeting with their legislator, a former legislator, a legislative intern, or even the Governor or a staff member. Girls plan for what they want to learn about, what questions to ask and who will ask them.	Find out about state government	Find out about state government	Find out about state government	Find out about state government	Find out about state government	Find out about state government
Girls learn about their Senators and Representatives, who they are and where they are from in their state. They learn what issues they are working on. If possible, girls set up a time to talk to one of them or a member of their staff. Girls hold a discussion on one of the issues to learn about different views.	Find out about national government	Find out about our country's legislative branch	Find out about our country's legislative branch	Find out about our country's legislative branch	Find out about the federal legislative branch	Find out about the federal legislative branch
Girls learn about the President, Vice President and fifteen Cabinet-level executive departments. They learn what the President can and cannot do and what the requirements are to be President. They learn about Presidents through history and if there has been a President or other executive from their state.		Find out about our country's executive branch	Find out about our country's executive branch	Find out about our country's executive branch	Find out about the federal executive branch	Find out about the federal executive branch
Girls visit a local court in session or virtually to see what happens in a court and interview a judge, if possible. They learn about the judicial branch of the U.S. government, and the Supreme Court. They learn about the women on the Supreme Court. They learn about federal courts and where they are located in their state. Girls research a ruling currently or		Find out about our country's judicial branch	Find out about our country's judicial branch	Find out about the federal judicial branch	Find out about the federal judicial branch	Find out about the federal judicial branch recently before the Supreme Court and talk about what they would do if they were a Supreme Court Judge by holding a mock court session.

Girl Scout Democracy Badge

