

Girl Scout Investigation Badge

One Way to Earn the Investigation Badge as a Multi-Level Troop	What Daisies Do (Lupe's Petal)	What Brownies Do (Sense's Badge)	What Juniors Do (Detective Badge)	What Cadettes Do (Special Agent Badge)	What Seniors Do (Truth Seeker Badge)	What Ambassadors Do
Have a scavenger hunt in your neighborhood and try to find at least 10 tiny things, like a clover or an anthill. Bring a magnifying glass, and talk about how it helps your sense of sight.	Enjoy "Lupe's Story," then talk about it	Look around	Practice the power of observation	Investigate investigation	Evaluate your sources	N/A
Go outside and try to listen to 10 different sounds. Draw a picture of what might be making those sounds. Next, test out your special agent skills! Have someone run into the room, grab an item or ask a question, and then leave in a flash. Then write down everything you remember about that person. What were they wearing?	Act out the story with your Daisy friends – each girl can take a different part	Listen to the world	Communicate in code	Reveal reality	Investigate what the experts say	N/A
Put on a blindfold and try sniffing different foods to see if you know what they are without seeing them. Next, make your own finger prints: Use pencil to color on a piece of paper. Rub your finger on the pencil marks, and then stick a piece of	Practice being honest and fair	Put your nose to work	Fingerprint for fun	Try the science	Be a wise consumer	N/A

Girl Scout Investigation Badge

transparent tape on your finger. Remove the tape and see your print! Go to your favorite online shopping site, read the fine print and claims the company makes about its products. Then check the consumer reports to see whether the claims match up.
With an adult, dye one food a different color than it was originally. You can try making blue milk or pink pancakes. Taste the food with its normal color and then with its new color. Did it taste the same to you? Next, research body language: Find out what different body gestures and positions mean. What are the signs someone might be lying? Finally, find a product that you use every day and look up the consumer reports online. Does this product claim to match up what it says it does?

Girl Scout Investigation Badge

Choose an issue you care about and write a letter to your favorite website, magazine, news station, or blog about this issue.		Touch and feel	Follow the clues to solve a real mystery	Practice the art of detection	Become a citizen journalist	N/A
--	--	-----------------------	---	--------------------------------------	------------------------------------	------------