Tess Ferguson, Langerhans Awareness

At the age of 4, my god-brother Ty was diagnosed with Langerhans cell histiocytosis. He gradually became physically disabled, and it kept him apart from his peers. I created blankets and stuffed animal clothes for him while he was in the hospital and it would brighten his day. Most kids don't have this experience growing up, and are uninformed of the hardships and struggles of this disease. I wanted this project to inform about Langerhans and the struggles people with this disease endure, and have the community come together to help ease these hardships for children in the hospital; just as I used to do for Ty. I created an awareness video to inform others about this disease and how they can help individuals feel comfortable when going through the process.

Abbigail Keller, Bed Bug Crisis

Many shelters experience bed bugs due to the high volume of individuals coming in and out of these shelters. I started a process at the House of Bread and Peace to eliminate the bed bug crisis by creating personalized cubbies for the residents to use for their items when they arrive. I also created a video to inform the community about The House of Bread and Peace and also sent this process to shelters in all 50 states to hopefully help them eliminate the bed bug crisis in their facilities.

Kellie Lambert, Inspiration for Children Visiting Hospitals

Kellie partnered with St. Vincent Center for Children to create treasure boxes filled with prizes for the kids that attend weekly appointments. This will allow kids to be excited to attend their appointments and give them something positive to look forward to. Kellie plans to create more treasure boxes at the Indianapolis Peyton Manning Children's Hospital and is going to share this idea with hospitals around the U.S. so they can implement the boxes as well! This will impact the hundreds of children that attend the hospital on a weekly basis throughout the year.

Ashley Sander, HOPE Garden Arbor

In today's society, there are many families that cannot afford food. The HOPE Garden produces food to feed over 700 families per year. The garden is completed as organically as possible to make the fruits and vegetables healthier. I built 5 arbors at their facility to help HOPE Garden be able to grow vine plants up the beams. This will allow them to grow more food items for the community and reach more people. I also created a step-by-step process to share how to construct the arbors with other shelters around the United States so that they can use the same system at their facilities.
